

The legislature should resist any weakening of the Do Not Call list. Calls from telemarketers are the scourge of any person trying to work at home, or rest after working hours, have a peaceful dinner with their family, or spend time with children. The citizens of New Jersey need your protection from the incessant interruptions in their daily life and homes.